Reminder – Necessary Documentation

Packing slips and acknowledgements do not take the place of an invoice or receipt. The invoice or receipt with detail of the transaction is a necessary document that must be kept as backup to validate the expense that is processed on the bank statement.

The following is an example of acceptable documentation. The Sales slip/credit card agreement slip alone does not validate the detail of the purchase and therefore must be kept with the detailed receipt/invoice.